

Poker Machine Standards

Apart from prevailing standards such as electrical safety certifications, all poker machines are required to comply with the Australian/New Zealand Gaming Machine National Standard (“NS”).

The NS has been developed by Australasian regulators, in consultation with Accredited Test Facilities, Licensed dealers and others, to provide guidance for the design of gaming machines, game software and related equipment, and to provide a testable standard to ensure that common regulatory requirements will be met. In addition to the NS, a jurisdiction may provide a local Appendix – setting out any additional or differing requirements for their specific jurisdiction.
